A. Choose the best answer(根据以下内容, 选择最恰当的答案)(12 分)

Jane, a reporter, is collecting information for the local newspaper. She is interested in the following things introduced in a magazine.

Smart Schoolbag

Forget to pack the books you need into your schoolbag in the morning rush?

A schoolboy aged 11 has invented a schoolbag. It tells you which books to pack. A small computer and a scanner (扫描装置) are fixed in the bag. As each book is put into the bag, it is checked by the scanner. If any book is missing, a message will be shown on the computer screen to remind you.

Weather Sweets

Can you eat weather?

A university makes that happen. It uses a 3D printer to create sweets based on the weather information of a certain day.

The shapes of the sweets are affected by wind speed. The colors of the sweets are decided by temperature. The sweets act as a weather record of the day when they are made.

Sunrise Bed

It's hard for you to get up in the morning, isn't it?

To help you get up, a company has created a "tool" -- a sunrise bed.

It wakes you up gently as a sunrise does. Lights built into the bed turn on and start to get brighter and brighter. When the lights are fully on, soft music will begin to play. It will be louder and louder until you turn it off. The company explains. "The gentle light tells your body that it is morning, so it stops producing a chemical that helps you sleep. "

Star Woman

Wang Zhenyi (王贞仪) (1768 - 1797)

Have you ever heard of Wang Zhenyi? Perhaps most of us didn't know this great name until she was introduced in a CCTV programme.

Wang Zhenyi was a great Chinese 65. She was born in the Qing Dynasty. At that time, girls had no chance to get a formal education. However, her father and grandfather were open - minded. They thought girls should share equal opportunities with boys. They 66 her to read the books in their home library. Wang Zhenyi educated herself and read a lot about astronomy (the study of the stars, planets, etc, ). maths, geography as well as medicine. Later, she decided to 67 astronomy.

In her time, many people expected the stars to tell what was going to happen. They thought certain events in the sky, such as lunar eclipses (月食), happened when gods were angry. But Wang Zhenyi thought differently. She believed in facts and observation. In order to explain those "strange" events, she did some 68. In one, she used a round table as the Earth, a lamp as the Sun and a mirror as the Moon. She moved them around to show what 69 happens during a lunar eclipse: when the Earth is passing directly between the Sun and the Moon, the sunlight cannot reach the Moon and the Moon "disappears".

Throughout her short life, Wang Zhenyi wrote many articles about her research. In her articles, she explained difficult ideas in clear and 70 ways so that people could understand science more easily. She helped make science available to more people.

每空格限填一词, 首字母已给) (14 分)

Which would you rather spend your money on, an outing with friends or a pair of expensive shoes? It is my opinion that spending money on experiences brings greater happiness.

My first (71) r _____ is that experiences make us different as we grow. We are not the result of the things we've bought. Instead, we are the result of everything we've seen and done. For example getting expensive clothes didn't (72) c _____ me a person, but the camping trip last summer certainly did. It made me more independent.

In addition. I (73) p _____ experiences because they bring people together. Sharing a new experience develops stranger relationships and creates long-lasting memories. Three years ago I met some teenagers on a study trip and now I am (74) s _____ in touch with them, but I hardly remember what I bought during the trip.

My final point is that, although some people say it is a great (75) j _____ to own things, I think using the things you own is more pleasant. For example, I spend most of my spare money on new parts for my old mountain bike, but I love the experience of (76) c _____. not owning bike parts!

To sum up, experiences make us who we are and develop stronger relationships. So next time before you pay for something, give it some (77) s _____ thought. Ask yourself, "Which will I spend my money on, an outing or a pair of shoes?"

D. Answer the questions (根据短文内容回答问题)(12 分)

(Mike is telling a story It happened when he was seven)

It was New Year's Eve. In the morning I heard Grandma tell Mum she needed a football for the New Year's Eve dinner.

"A football for the dinner? What's it for?" I wondered "Anyway, I will get one! I can do something nice for Grandma"

I remembered my friend Joe had an old football. I went out quietly and found him. I gave him my favourite model car in exchange for his football.

I took the football home, shined it and put it on the living room table secretly. I waited in my room for Grandma to notice it.

"Mike!" Mum shouted. I ran to the living room. "Why can't you put your things where they belong? Get the football out of here!"

"But it's for Grandma! she said she needed a football for the New Year's Eve dinner." I said.

"A football for the dinner?" Mum laughed "No, Grandma needs a fruit bowl, not a football."

"Fruit bowl sounds like football! I have done a silly thing!" I went back to my room, embarrassed and disappointed.

Before dinner, Mum came in and asked me to meet my uncles and aunts. When I walked into the living room, Grandma was showing them a pretty fruit bowl with the old football in its centre. I was surprised.

78. How old was Mike when the story happened?

79. What did Mike give Joe to get the football?

80. Whom did Mike expect to notice the football?

81. Why did Mike think he had done a silly thing?

82. What did Grandma do with the football?

83. How might Mike feel after hearing Grandma's words? Explain why.

It was a big day for Sarah's family. There was going to be a party for Sarah's brother Peter. He had just graduated from high school. Early in the morning, Peter had a quick breakfast and left home in a hurry. Sarah was still in bed when her mom came in. Mom asked her to do the cleaning and decorate the living room. Sarah was not happy to get up so early, but she agreed to help. After breakfast, the parents started to prepare food for the party. Sarah began to clean the house. Several hours later, they finished all the work and were very tired.

Sarah wondered why his brother Peter did nothing for his own party. At about five, Peter came back home and saw the decoration and the food. He was so thankful for everything the family had done for his party. He told the family excitedly that he did a few interviews and got a summer job that day. And in this way, he could help to pay for college. Sarah realized that it was also a busy day for Peter. She gave him a big hug and said to him "Enjoy the party!"

参考范文

Dear Mr. Zhang

I am writing to you to share my ideas about the use of the student activity room. When it comes to me, I prefer to make it a heart-to-heart room.

For some students, they may feel helpless and depressed when they meet troubles in life, especially those who are shy. They can turn to this place for help if there is one. Besides, students of our age are likely to suffer from mental problems. If these problems aren't solved well, they may bring bad results.
Heart-to-heart room can offer help to these students in time.

Thank you for reading my E - mail. (count: 101)

Yours,
Li Hua
